WASHINGTON, Dec. 16—(INS)—The bizarre web of mystery and scandal surrounding the bankruptcy of the McKesson and Robbins Drug Company may enmesh several members of State Legislatures and the National Congress, International News Service learned today.

A spokesman for one of the Federal agencies investigating the shadowy maze of transactions that culminated in the indictment of F. Donald Coster, the firm's president, revealed that a number of political figures might be drawn into the case.

This disclosure followed swiftly on the heels of a Justice Department announcement that Coster's activities may have included the smuggling of armaments to a foreign nation in violation of the Neutrality Act.

According to the official, Federal agents are in the possession of information indicating a group of legislators had been "approached" for political "influence" in connection with several transactions engaged in by McKesson and Robbins officials.

Investigators who are running down this information are attempting to learn if there has been any bribery of legislative officials.

"We have uncovered certain information that indicates a possible link between the activities of certain McKesson and Robbins Company officials and members of local legislatures and possibly the national Legislature as well," the official said. "Whether there has been any unlawful activity on the part of these political representatives has not been established by the investigators."

NEW YORK, Dec. 16—George Bernard, Canadian agent for the drug firm of McKesson and Robbins, Inc., today was identified through fingerprints in the state attorney's office, as Arthur Musica, brother of Phillip Musica, president of the company, who had masqueraded as "F. Donald Coster."

Bernard and Coster are two of the three men indicted in an investigation of a huge shortage in the drug company's affairs.

The third man is named as "George Dietrich," assistant treasurer and vice-president of the company.

Coster, or Musica, had two other brothers, who dropped from sight two decades ago.

Weik Family Hosts When Choir Has X'mas Party

The monthly business meeting and luncheon of the choir of First Baptist Church was held Wednesday evening in the Sunday School room. The table decorations were in keeping with Christmas, with a Santa Claus as individual favors. The luncheon consisted of a platter of hard boiled eggs, grated carrot, green pepper, potato salad and lettuce leaf made into the shape of "Raggedy Ann;" boiled ham, rolls and coffee. George Talbot impersonated Santa and delivered gifts to all in attendance. The Christmas party was concluded with the singing of carols.

Those present: Mrs. Frank Hilgen-dorff, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Klaiber, Mrs. Roy Tracy, Miss Winifred Tracy, Mr. and Mrs. William Marshall, Mr. Fred Gould, Mrs. Joseph Talbot, George Talbot, George Lovett, Gilbert Lovett, Miss Marie Watson, Dr. Alfred Forlano, Miss Gladys Weik, Miss Anita Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. George Romig, Miss Laura Ellis, Miss Rae Vandegrift, and the Rev. Howard L. Zupp.

TO EMPLOY EXTRA HELP TO HANDLE X'MAS MAIL

Four Extra Men and Regular Employees Will Start Work
One Hour Earlier

PUBLIC CAN ASSIST

Last year's experience of delayed local mail deliveries at the Christmas season will not be repeated this year if the public gives a reasonable share of co-operation, judging from plans outlined at the Bristol post office. Of course if everyone is going to wait until the last day to mail Christmas cards and packages, then of course the task of making the deliveries before Christmas Day will be beyond human capability. Last year some Christmas mail was still being delivered a week later.

The post office will be open tomorrow afternoon until 6:30 a. m. to accommodate the public and thus aid in the proper delivery of mail.

"We have engaged four extra men and have mapped out our own system," says Joseph P. Duffy, postmaster. Mr. Duffy was referring to plans for this year, of course, and said that the reason the deliveries were delayed to such an extent last year, was due to the fact that the Bristol office did not have an appropriation for extra help. "This year we have," he said.

The four extra men will begin work Tuesday morning. In addition to this extra help all regular carriers will report for work at six a. m., instead of seven a. m. All regular carriers will rack the mail until eight o'clock. Then the sub-carriers will start out to make deliveries. The regular carriers will continue to rack the mail and will start out to make deliveries when they have accumulated a load. All carriers will deliver until dark.

By this method considerable more time will be afforded for the racking of the mail and two deliveries and perhaps more will be made on each route, each day. "It requires considerable more time to rack the mail than it does to deliver it," says Mr. Duffy, and he and his assistants are of the opinion that they have a system which this year will be ample to the demand.

But despite all this system and extra help the plea to "do your Christmas mailing early" still holds good. Don't leave it to the last minute to mail your cards and parcels. Don't forget that the mail carriers would like to have a Merry Christmas and you can aid them in having one by doing your mailing early. Start mailing Monday for local delivery.

"The Pennsylvania Cannery Association, at a recent meeting, adopted a resolution favoring King. The Philadelphia and Pittsburgh branches of the National League of Wholesale Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Distributors likewise have endorsed him."

"Petitions carrying the names of 500 firms engaged in the marketing of Pennsylvania farm products have been forwarded to Republican State headquarters at Harrisburg, urging the appointment of King," states the article.

Here and There in Bucks County Towns

Speeding of cars through Richboro was given attention at a meeting of the Village Improvement Association, this week. It was pointed out however that a smaller number of accidents have been taking place in the town.

This, it was pointed out, was due to the efficient work on the part of Constable Jack Frey, who has been directing traffic. Not one accident has taken place in the village during the past four months, but over a period of two months last Summer 23 accidents were reported. Constable Frey was given a vote of thanks for his excellent work.

An extremely large attendance was chalked up for Rice Brothers Sale at Solebury, this week, with a large amount of stock being sold.

It is estimated that no less than 2000 persons attended the sale, proceeds of which amounted to $3248. More than half this amount was received from the sale of poultry, prices of which were somewhat better than two weeks ago. The top price paid for poultry was 21½ cents a pound for Barred Rock pullets. The offering of poultry was quite heavy, and very little of it remained unsold.

Less than 100 turkeys were offered. Toms brought as high as 28 cents and hens as high as 30 cents a pound. Some of the lighter stock brought 21½ cents a pound.

The offering of cows was rather light, they selling from $25 to $63. A bull went to the highest bidder for $40 and a steer brought $43. Very few calves were offered, and they brought from $1.50 to $9.25 each. Goats also were scarce, they bringing from $1.35 to $7.75 each.

About 300 head of hogs were on sale and almost all of the pens were cleared by the close of the sale. Hog prices were as follows: Fat hogs, $12 to $23 each; seed hogs, $9 to $14 each; shoats, $3.65 to $7.25 each, and small pigs, $1.75 to $4 each.

The Delaware Valley Milk Goat Association elected officers a few days ago, when a meeting took place at the home of the Misses Fell, Hollings. Seventy-five from New York, Philadelphia, Lancaster, Milford, Doylestown, Bristol, and points in New Jersey attended the meeting.

Results of the election were as follows: President, W. Graham Smith, Ambler; first vice-president, Mrs. Lester Cohen, of near Carversville; second vice-president, Dr. Margaret Sharpe, Media; financial secretary and treasurer, H. W. Anderson, Prospectville; corresponding secretary, Stanley Thompson, Bristol; and directors, Robert C. Pyle, 3rd, and Rev. Mr. Leschantz.

The speaker at the meeting of Northampton Township Parent-Teacher Association, addressing a group in the Richboro high school, this week, was the Rev. Robinson, Ambler. He informed the parents and teachers that when a nation begins to educate the head of the individual and not the TREVOSE, Dec. 16—A resolution was adopted by Trevose Horticultural Society this week, recommending the appointment of Robert B. McKenney, Newtown, as superintendent of Washington Crossing State Park. The name of Mr. McKenney was recommended for the new state administration at the meeting of the society in the community house, Tuesday evening.

The Upper Southampton high school chorus, directed by Miss Elizabeth Stewart, supervisor of music, gave selections. Forty voices are included, and the numbers were much enjoyed by the 300 attending.

Garrett V. Clark, the president, placed the meeting in charge of Mrs. Henry C. Parry, Langhorne, who in turn placed it in charge of Miss Stewart. Five of the high school boys from Southampton rendered a Negro spiritual, "I'll Be Ready When the Day Comes," following which the entire chorus rendered three numbers, "Home On The Range," "I Love A Paradise," and "Pretense."

heart, that nation stands in danger. He pointed out that it is necessary to educate the heart also.

The theme of the program was "The Citizen in the Nursery." "Every influence in the life of the child," declared the clergyman from Ambler, "must be just right because early impressions either make or break the life of the child. The attitude in which parents answer their children's questions has a vast influence on their lives."

"Parents should guide their children in the ways of living and should set the proper examples."

With a large attendance, a meeting of the Auxiliary of Albert R. Atkinson, Jr., Post, No. 210, was held in Doylestown, Tuesday evening, when a Christmas party was held, with Santa giving gifts to the members present.

The toy shower was held and there were about 50 toys, and also some canned goods donated by members toward the Christmas cheer. The Auxiliary will pack and take baskets of food and will also give clothing to veterans' families for Christmas. Three boys from that vicinity, who are at Contesville Veterans' Hospital, will be remembered with gifts. Also six children at Scotland School will be sent Christmas gifts, and several gift boxes will be sent to the Naval Hospital in Philadelphia.

The Gold Star Mothers and shut-ins will receive a remembrance from the unit.

Bristol Stores Offer Many Use-

Suitable for Gifts

REASONABLY PRICED

By Window Shopper
The phrase is heard so frequently today, "It's difficult to find gifts for the man." This may have been true several years ago, when choice of articles was limited, but not so today, with all the useful items, unusual gadgets, and things for both practical use and pleasure for the man.

Proving further that this saying no longer holds good, Tomesani's Electric Service is featuring at its store, 322 Mill street, radios of every description of the Emerson make. Any size or model from the grand wide ones of satiny wood finish for the living-room, to the tiny ones of composition finish for the den, kitchen or bedroom may be had. The latter come in red, green, cream, white and other colors, and many are combination radio-talking machines.

Electric candle-sticks with crystal pendants with matching fruit bowl have prominent places in a portion of the display window of Factors-to-You Furniture Store, 225 Mill street. The shades for the candle-sticks are opaque, and the set will make a pleasing addition to the dining-room of a relative or friend, about whose gift for the Christmas season you are in doubt.

To Popkin's we will go for our selection of slippers, for there is to be found almost every conceivable style of comfort slipper. If the choice is dark velvet with narrow bands of silver running horizontally across the instep and toes, they are to be had in blue, wine tone, and many other attractive shades, with cut-outs down the center of the instep to the toe. Or the choice might be in one of the rayon satin models, these coming in gray patterns, with trim little bows at the front. For the young woman who has those important evening functions to attend at Christmas time you might

Tells Rotarians of Trips To 17 Foreign Countries

Matthew J. Scammel, Trenton business man, was the guest speaker at the regular weekly meeting of the Bristol Rotary Club at the Elks' Home yesterday afternoon. A 100 per cent attendance heard Scammel tell of his many interesting experiences on a recent trip to 17 foreign countries.

The speaker told the Rotarians, and the three visitors who were present, of his reactions and experiences in the different countries in which he visited.

He also gave very comprehensive views on the economic and business conditions in each of these 17 European countries. The reactions of the people he met in these countries on their like or dislike of dictators was also mentioned.

Speaking of the farming conditions in Switzerland, Scammel said that he did not see one cow in the field. This country being renowned for its dairy products, the visitor could not understand why the animals were not out grazing. He was informed that the reason for this is the fact that the cows tramp down about one-third of the fodder, and the farmers there find it cheaper to take the fodder to the cows in the barn. At the end of the season, however, the cows are allowed to roam the pastures.

The meeting next week will be held at the Grand Theatre, on the occasion of the annual X'mas party of the club.

Nearly 1,000 Cans of Food Given for Needy by Children

Children approximating 1,000 in number crowded into the Bristol Theatre yesterday afternoon to attend a special matinee performance at four o'clock. The admission price was a can of food which is to be distributed to the needy at Christmas, by a group of four organizations, including Sunday School class of Mrs. William Mohre, of Bristol M. E. Church; Girl Reserves, of Bristol High School; Red Cross, and the Community Center.

The children began forming in line shortly after three o'clock, and the line extended for nearly a square. The pavement in front of the theatre was packed with youngsters waiting for the doors to open.

With the opening of the doors the children began to crowd into the playhouse, dropping their cans of food into cartons and piles on the floor of the lobby. There were cans of food rolling in all directions. The pressure of the youngsters against one of the doors became so great that the glass panel was cracked.

Inside the theatre the children crowded two and in some instances more into one seat. The aisles were filled and the gallery and lobby in the rear were pressed into service.

SAYS PALESTINE IS POSSIBLE HOME FOR NUMEROUS PEOPLES

Dr. S. A. Waksman Gives An

LAND OF MILK, HONEY

Jews Have Converted Waste
Lands Into the Finest of Farm Lands

The guest speaker at the meeting of the Bristol Exchange Club last evening was Dr. S. A. Waksman, director of the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station, located at New Brunswick, N. J. As professor of microbiology at that institution, Dr. Waksman has gained international prominence as an expert in his field. During the past summer he was called to Palestine to make a survey and analysis of a large swamp area in northern Palestine to determine the feasibility of using the peat deposits for fertilizer and other purposes in sections of Palestine colonized and settled by Jews.

For that reason, Dr. Waksman took as his subject the larger question, "Palestine—a Possible Home for a Large Number of People?" He pointed out that in Biblical times this small territory, which measures only 120 miles from north to south, and only 20 miles between mountains and sea in the north and about 50 or 60 miles across at the south, maintained a population of more than 5,000,000 people. "Despite crude farming equipment and despite far more hazardous means of communication than those of modern times, this country nevertheless was literally a land flowing with milk and honey. If it could support so large a population in those times, why not now?"

Dr. Waksman called attention to the fact that "this small country, lying at the junction of the three great continents of Europe, Asia and Africa, and frequently called 'The Gateway of the Continents,' has been for centuries the battleground of the marching armies of the world. As a result it has constantly been reduced to a barren waste, stripped of its forests and natural resources, the home of wandering and warring tribes."

"Thus, at the close of the World War, it had a population of only half a million, of whom about 400,000 were Arabs, 50,000 Jews, and 50,000 Christians. Today," said Dr. Waksman, "there are more than 400,000 Jews in Palestine."

"This increase in the number of Jews in Palestine began immediately after the World War, when the British Government, for the first time in centuries, definitely encouraged the Jews to resettle Palestine. There had been attempts at resettlement prior to that time, but without tangible success. With the upheavals wrought by the World War, large numbers of Jews in Russia and Poland, most of whom were moved with idealistic fervor to reestablish the homeland of their forefathers, returned to Palestine. In recent years the movement gained tremendous impetus when Jews, driven out of their homes through harsh persecution in Germany and Austria, turned to the Holy Land."

"Although they found the land a barren waste, the Jews, with characteristic energy, courage and determination, began at once to restore it and to make it an up-to-date country. Since the hills were occupied by Arabs, the Jews began to colonize the valleys. First they drained these, and thus got rid of the ancient pests of mosquitoes and malaria. Those valleys, shunned for centuries, the Jews today have converted into some of the

THEY WANT TO BE SHOWN

A healthy development at Washington is the seeming readiness of returning congressmen to take a show-me attitude toward the rearmament program.

Among the latest to express himself is Representative-elect John C. Kunkel, of the Harrisburg, Pa., district. Kunkel said he favors defense as such and is unequivocally opposed to involvement in foreign wars.

That the American people favor more armaments has been evidenced by every competent indicator of public opinion. They accepted the events culminating at Munich as showing the world is not a safe place for those inadequately armed.

But there is no hysteria about it, if the congressional attitude referred to can be taken as representative. Apparently the people want to rearm adequately, but no more than adequately. They are in no mood, one guesses, to arm simply for the sake of arming or as a new way of spending ourselves, European fashion, into a kind of war prosperity.

If that is the attitude, it is a thoroughly healthy one. It will prompt a properly responsible examination by Congress of the reasons for rearming and an informative debate of the whole subject.

It is a subject that, in our opinion, needs to be debated fully and with no reluctance to name names. Before the country launches into the international armament competition—which is what rearmament means—it owes both the world and itself this frank discussion of whom it is rearming against and why. There has been no bashfulness about the display of contempt abroad for the regime of international law, which this country formerly relied on to minimize its armament requirements. We see no harm and possibly some advantage in being equally frank in acknowledging American awareness of the new world condition, which contempt for law has created.

Effective debate will illuminate not only this condition but the extent of the change in American defense needs that it requires. The principal change would seem that connoted by the new "continental solidarity" policy, which is not altogether novel at that. What is new is mainly that lawless European and Asiatic countries have been propagandizing and otherwise manifesting an unusual interest in South and Central America.

The significance of this in terms of arms requirements still remains to be assayed, however. Is actual invasion by these powers practically feasible, if that is what the President envisages as a possibility of the new world regime? Or is the threatened invasion only a commercial one, to which arms obviously would be no answer? Or is what we fear the "capture" of some neighbor country by inspired revolution, peaceful or otherwise? And, in that case, what would we do about it?

A frank discussion of such questions as these plainly should precede the decision on how America should rearm and might help also to clarify the international atmosphere.

Revolutions and riots are the safety valves in Europe and Latin America for the same thing which escapes in the United States through college sports and class scraps.

Small town movies have one advantage. The knee rubber won't risk it where everybody knows him.

The Great Game of Politics

her of attempts to get a semblance of order out of the mess. Every time he has been moved in this direction he has called upon Mr. Walker, and with doglike devotion Mr. Walker has responded, labored for a while and then disappeared. At one time, he was regarded as the "Assistant President" and all department heads were supposed to clear through him. At another he was the chosen head of what was called the Super Cabinet, composed of the members of the regular Cabinet plus the chiefs of all the New Deal boards and commissions. At another, he brought into being the National Emergency Council, which, though now generally conceded to be the most useless of all New Deal gadgets, still functions at a cost of a million dollars a year.

ON these and other occasions Mr. Walker strove mightily, as was once said of him, "to co-ordinate the inco-ordinatable and unscrew the in-scrutable." But every time he had to give it up. The job of bringing about co-operation and reducing the confusion without power to hire, fire, consolidate or abolish, clearly required more than human strength. Every time Mr. Walker resigned and retired to private life, having accomplished a net of nothing at all. Always he took with him cordial commendation for his noble efforts from the President and left an enthusiastic tribute to the noble efforts of the President. The game always ended with expressions of mutual esteem.

IT has now been nearly a year since Mr. Walker had an official job. The last co-ordinator was Mr. James Roosevelt, the big moving-picture and insurance man. The amount of co-ordination achieved by James was never visible to the naked eye. It must have amused Walker when he read about what young James was going to do, but his devotion remains undiminished. Today he is unselfishly serving as treasurer of the Democratic National Committee and in his spare time collects from various fat-cat friends of the President money to build the Hyde Park edifice to house the Roosevelt papers, which is unique in one respect—it is, in effect, a self-erected memorial. No other President has thought of that.

NOW, reflectors of White House views tells us that the President needs Mr. Walker in Washington again. One suggestion is that he will take the place of Mr. Harry Hopkins to straighten out the WPA mess. The idea is that Mr. Hopkins is in a hot spot. Among other things that spend, spend, tax, tax and elect, elect race-track remark has been tied to him like a tin can to a dog, and it seems desirable to get him in some other position, such as Secretary of Commerce, where it won't be heard to rattle. A second idea is that Mr. Walker may go into the Cabinet as Postmaster General if and when the able and astute Mr. Farley goes into private business. A third notion is that the President needs Mr. Walker to handle the national defense problem for him. A fourth is that once more he is going to try to "co-ordinate." In any event, the word is out that "Good Old Frank" is coming down again. What a man! He certainly can take it.

UNUSUAL GIFTS of exceptional value . . . SEEN IN THE SHOPS of Philadelphia by Clarinda

A NEW house? Xmas right at hand. What an ideal combination for gift seekers. Be sure to visit Murta, Appleton & Co.'s 3rd floor lamp and lighting fixture display room. There are all kinds here to fit into any decorative scheme—imported ones that add the right touch to transform a banal room into a distinctive one. And the best of American products, too. On this floor also there are gift ideas in hearth pieces—18-inch polished brass andirons, $12.00 a pair; set of 3 polished brass fire tools and stand, $7.50; black kettle Cape Cod lighter, $3.00; log roller with 48-inch handle, $3.00. MURTA, APPLETON & CO., S. W. Cor. 12th and Sansom Streets.

FOUND—a gift that will mark the giver as having taste and discrimination. This perfect present is an Italian pottery fruit basket at $3.25 with such rich colorings and pleasing proportions that it will harmonize with any color scheme or settings. There's a fine collection of this ware—$2 to $5.50—bowls, vases, plates, tea sets. All are colorful and cheerful for informal entertaining. For the man who gives parties often, a welcome addition to his house would be a non-tarnishable chrome tub with a vacuum filler that will keep ice cubes intact for 24 hours. In different patterns and styles at $10, $12, $15. WRIGHT, TYNDALE & VAN RODEN, 1719 Chestnut Street.

SWEATERS for wear with tweed suits, on the golf links or squash courts and for many other uses! Imported wool "Glenary" sweaters at Snellenburg's will go smartly over and right to the man's heart. At $3.95, there are many colors and patterns to choose from. You'll be sure to find the right gift here. And if he's "hard on clothes," a "Yorkshire" cardigan type sweater at $5.00 is guaranteed against running and snagging and has an action back which gives freer play. Also for the outdoor man, a welcome gift would be a cardigan at $4.95 with suede front and knitted back and sleeve. SNELLENBURG & CO., 11th and Market Streets, street floor.

MAN dear—take a tip from Life's survey "of what plain and fancy people want for Christmas" and you'll take a Blum Store skunk chubby jacket at the very special price of $100, for it has everything that the one-and-only-woman could want. Reaching below the hip bone on the average figure, it is the right coat for so many occasions and so very 1939-ish. Of silver-fox tipped skunk, it looks as though it should cost much more, even to the eyes of the most canny shopper. The spiral working of the sleeves adds to the extra-expensive appearance and gives that figure-flattering built up shoulder effect. THE BLUM STORE, 13th and Chestnut Streets.

THE life of the party—the accordion player who with the merry lilting instrument makes all who hear happy at heart. No wonder there's an increasing number of boys and girls who want to learn to play it. Such a wish may be gratified for Santa can give the youngsters a series of lessons under the Wurlitzer Lesson Plan which includes 20 private lessons—one a week—at the rate of $1.25 each, plus the use of a practice instrument. Later he may join a weekly ensemble class. Also under this same plan are violin, piano, trumpet, cornet, guitar, saxophone, cello, banjo, drums, clarinet, marimba. WURLITZER, 1031 Chestnut Street.

TO THE many Lady Santa Claus! Go into Jackson & Moyer where there's a gift for every man and a label on it he'll be proud of. Their robe section is filled with a big collection in a variety of fabrics, a price range from moderate to the more expensive, and with the accent on quality, good tailoring and fine fit. Terry cloth at $6.00 for the lucky Southbound male; flannel, plain and patterned starting at $6.50; rayon mixtures and pure silk, too. Tailored to the store's own specifications, they have such nicety of detail as snug-fitting neck, since the collars are put on as suit collars are. JACKSON & MOYER, 1610 Chestnut Street.

ENTERTAINING Aces that Santa Claus has up his sleeve for busy hostesses are electrical grills and toasters. Any of these will make supper parties easy to give and equally easy on budgets. An automatic grill and sandwich toaster, $11.95, makes two big double sandwiches, has aluminum waffle grids and the top when folded back provides double surface for pancakes, steaks, chops. Two drip pans come with this. A sandwich grill at $6.95, not only makes piping hot toasted sandwiches but also grills and fries right at the table. Waffle grids, easily inserted or removed, are $2 extra. At any electrical dealer or electric company.

that title at the Bristol Theatre with Miriam Hopkins, Edward G. Robinson and Joel McCrea in its leading roles.

Her first picture under her new contract to Goldwyn, "Barbary Coast" offers Miriam Hopkins her greatest role as Swan, a beautiful girl who invades this gold-mad city of love-hungry men and becomes hard and cold as the diamonds with which she is decked by Chamalis, the powerful, ruthless owner of the notorious Bella Donna cafe, over whose crooked roulette table she reigns.

Into this struggling mass of humanity wanders Jim Carmichael, a fine, clean-cut young chap, who has made his strike. He and Swan fall in love, but the man meets a bitter disillusionment when he discovers her connection with the Bella Donna.

Death and destruction stalk the scene and Chamalis' jealous rage nearly turns the romance into tragedy before the lovers are free to face the future together.

Robinson is seen as the brutal Chamalis and Joel McCrea, who has also just signed a long-term contract with Goldwyn, plays Jim.

Charles MacArthur and Ben Hecht wrote the screen play of "Barbary Coast." Howard Hawks handled the megaphone. The supporting cast includes Walter Brennan, Frank Craven, Brian Donlevy, Clyde Cook, Harry Carey, Donald Meek and many others. "Barbary Coast" is released through United Artists.

Something new and different in the way of musical comedies has been realized in "Garden of the Moon," the Warner Bros. production based upon the Saturday Evening Post serial of the same name, which opened yesterday at the Grand Theatre.

It has a story. A story that makes sense and is packed with first-rate comedy. It has tunes which only the stone-deaf can refrain from whistling, humming or singing, and it is presented with a spirited liveliness that ranks it as one of the year's best comedies—musical or otherwise.

Added to its superlative excellence as sheer entertainment, the new musical gains enormously in interest because it introduces a personable young man who, by his work in this one picture, establishes himself indubitably as a singing and acting star of the first magnitude.

The young man is John Payne, who shares top-billing honors with Pat O'Brien and Margaret Lindsay. It is no aspersion on the contributions of the latter two—for, after all, their positions have long been well-established—to say that tall, dark and very handsome Mr. Payne is the big news of the production.

Pat O'Brien is said to have regarded his role as the manager of the famous night spot called the "Garden of the Moon" as one of the best in his career. He's right. And he did full justice to the opportunity it gives him, for he is brilliantly effective in making an amusing and unforgettable character of the hard-boiled, double-crossing impresario he plays.

Miss Lindsay—in a new type of role, as a girl press agent for the "Garden"—does a sparkling job which speaks well for her future screen career.

Assisting Payne in putting over the musical numbers, and also contributing importantly to the comedy, are a quartette of fellows long famous as musicians and unorthodox vocalists but not quite so well known as they should be for their comedy. They are Johnnie Davis, Joe Venutti, Jerry Colonna and Ray Mercer, and they're worth the price of admission by themselves.

Besides these entertainers, there is a highly competent aggregation of players handling the straight acting roles, among whom the most effective portrayals are contributed by Melville Cooper, Isabel Jeans, Curt Bois, Mabel Todd, Penny Singleton, and, finally, that famous chatterbox of the radio, Jimmie Fidler, who executes with surprising skill the really difficult assignment of playing himself.

No summation of the enjoyable features of the production could be complete without a tribute to the musical numbers contributed by the ever-reliable Harry Warren, Al Dubin and Johnny Mercer. They wrote five new songs for this picture, of which the catchiest is probably the lilting fox trot entitled "Confidentially." As the basis for two unusually-staged numbers, they wrote novelty songs with the intriguing titles, "The Girl Friend of the Whirling Dervish" and "The Lady on the Two Cent Stamp," which will undoubtedly be regarded by many people as the most enjoyable features of the production.

Busby Berkeley directed the entire production and proves again, as he twice before was given opportunity to do, that his talents are not limited to the direction of dance numbers. Jerry Wald and Richard Macaulay wrote the screen play from the story by H. Bedford-Jones and Barton Browne.

who gave two readings, "A Man in the Making" and "The Ballad of the Harp Weaver." Accompanied at the piano by Miss Dorothy Albert, Robert Saurman rendered two violin solos, following which Miss Myers gave another group of readings, "By Courier" and "Da Lettle Boy."

The program by the chorus was brought to a conclusion with the singing of several more selections, "Gesu Bambino," "The Christmas Day" and "O Holy Night," with Miss Esther Engle taking the solo part in the latter.

Singing of Christmas carols with Miss Stewart directing was enjoyed by the audience.

Christmas wreaths, table decorations and manger scenes were exhibited. The judges were Mrs. Walter Raab, Mrs. Booth and Mrs. Mabel Craven. Among the winners who received potted plants were Miss Helen Vaughn and Mrs. Bogges, Bryn Athyn; Mrs. Traub, Churchville; Mrs. Phelps, Jenkintown; Mrs. Roberts, Newtown; and Mrs. Clark. The plants received by the winners were donated by Charles Randall.

Miss Helen Vaughn, who has charge of the flower exhibits at the monthly meetings of the society, asked members to consider what decorations to substitute after the removal of the Christmas decorations. She requested that they bring their suggestions to the next meeting, which will be held Tuesday evening, January 17.

choose evening slippers in either gold, silver or white, according to the type of gown she is wearing.

To the Edna Mae Beauty Shop, 325 Mill street, let us go for our appointment for a permanent wave for the season. One always likes to look one's best not only for the dress-occasion, but every day as well. And it will be wise, in view of the busy season to arrange for that facial, and arch, and probably a manicure at the one time.

Jewelry is certainly coming to its own in a big way this year—what with lockets and many other pieces back in style. J. W. Clark at 131 Mill street is more than glad to show his wide assortment in those of oval, round, rectangular or heart-shaped style. And shall it be yellow or white gold? Then another question—Shall it bear the initials of the recipient? But these are all answered to please the one who will receive of course. One set of particular interest is a heart-shaped locket with chain, and a compact. These in yellow gold are set with brilliants.

Smokers are always easy to please, and it is just as easy to buy the Christmas gifts for them. Straus' Cut are: First, Marie Brunner; second, Alfred Moser; third, Harlan Meder; with honorable mention for Catherine Myers, Stephen Sutton, Betty Jane Wunsch, Cheston Wheeler.

The prize winners in the scrap-book contest are: First, Florence Fry; second, Audrey Brostrom; third, Harold Weber; with honorable mention for Rowland Day and Sue Shapcott.

The prizes are $1 for first place; $0.75 for second place; and $0.50 for third place in each of the contests. Those making the posters were students in grades five and six, and the scrap-books were fashioned by pupils of grades seven and eight. Thirty-two posters and 13 scrap-books were executed.

The winners were chosen by members of the local union in meeting Wednesday evening, votes being cast by each, the one with the largest number of votes being declared first, and so on in order.

The contest lasted for one month, from November 7th until December 7th. This is the second year for the making of posters, and the initial try with the scrap-books here.

The rules of the contest stated that the students were to use subject-matter on "Temperance and its relation to health, showing how use of alcoholic drink harms health, or how athletes benefit by not drinking alcoholic beverages. Any original ideas which show how abstaining from strong drink benefit the athlete, the boy, girl, man or woman, may be used; or the harmful results of alcoholic drink may be shown if desired."

Bensalem Faculty To Play Alumni Tonight

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Dec. 16.—The unofficial opening of Bensalem High School's varsity basketball schedule takes place here tonight when the school faculty stacks up against its Alumni teams in the fifth meeting of the combinations. The official varsity inaugural is slated for next Tuesday when the Alumni teams oppose the outfits to represent the school this year.

In the four games played thus far, the male faculty has trimmed the Alumni three times, winning last year for the third year, 36-28. Therefore the Alumni five hopes to cut down that margin in the series by taking their former teachers tonight.

finest farmlands in the world, adequately watered through modern irrigation methods, stocked with the finest of cattle, and equipped with modern farm machinery. While certain products can be imported more cheaply than raised at home, the Jewish farmers have already gained world wide reputation for their oranges and citrus fruits, which are said to excel those of Florida and California. Wherever the Jews have colonized and settled, the ground once more blooms.

"With the development of agriculture, there has also been a remarkable growth in industry. The Dead Sea, for example, which was looked upon with a certain contempt for centuries because of its apparent uselessness, is now yielding potash and bromide in such large quantities, that the Palestine potash industry is a definite threat to the great, world-renowned potash fields of Salzburg, Germany. Similarly, the river Jordan, practically useless for navigation, is used to develop not only all the electric power needed in Palestine, but enough for adjoining countries also.

"Commerce with other countries is being encouraged mightily. Thus, Jaffa, the ancient seaport of the Holy Land, has been rebuilt as a modern city of 200,000 inhabitants, comparable to the finest modern American city, with ample and up-to-the-minute hotel, transportation, and telephone facilities, six daily newspapers, and all the other features that make the modern city. To its piers come steamships from all over the world, and once more commerce has become a major factor in Palestine's social economy, through which more and more Jews are finding it possible to earn their daily bread in peace and contentment.

"A third factor in the rapid growth of the new Palestine under Jewish aegis, has been the encouragement of tourist trade. Heretofore travelers have hesitated visiting Palestine, because of the great risk of personal danger. While that danger has not been eliminated in those portions still occupied by Arabs, it has been completely removed wherever the Jews have taken possession of the land." Dr. Waksman depicted very graphically the rapidity with which new settlements are made. Certain groups of young men are trained specifically in the work of building a new settlement site. So skillful and proficient have these builders become, that colonization sites are frequently built within a day's time, including the erection of the ever-necessary stockade as a protection against attack by Arabs.

"Thus," said Dr. Waksman, "wherever the Jews have gone in Palestine, the once desert land blooms again, with green orchards and beautifully cultivated farms, with commodious hotels and modern conveniences, providing a truly comfortable abode for more and more people." "And," said he, "while Palestine could not at present support a large, sudden increase in population, it could easily absorb and support at least 2,000,000 more Jews if their immigration is extended over the next 15 or 20 years. This Palestine and the Palestine Jews can do if allowed to work out their own destiny, without harmful interference from other nations."

Preceding Dr. Waksman's address, the following were elected as officers of the Exchange Club for the coming year: President, Dr. J. J. Willaman; vice-president, Roy F. Fry; secretary, Charles F. Boyd; treasurer, William J. Lefferts.

HOLLYWOOD.—Theaters in Chicago and two other eastern cities offered Jane Withers $7,500 a week for Yuletide personal appearances but the starlet has turned the offer down in order to play Santa Claus for underprivileged children in Los Angeles. For six months, Jane has been dressing dolls and preparing other toys. She has 500 gifts ready for delivery to hospitals, orphanages and poor families on Christmas day.

Jane Withers

When terms of the Gable property settlement are made public, it will be revealed that he already has paid her a fortune. Understand the sum runs to over $280,000, tax free. . . . And that the final amount will be around $340,000.

That New York late spot incident, where Eleanor Troy soaked Jack Doyle, was almost repeated here when she came into the Club 17 the other night and spotted the so-called Irish thrush with her new interest, Movita. Eleanor was for helping history to repeat itself but the management talked her out of it. . . . Which will be a surprise for Doyle for it all went on behind his back.

Hollywood is surprised to hear that Cecilia Parker will become an American citizen, because it thought she already was one. But Cecilia, it turns out, is a Canadian. . . . Which is doubly interesting for this reason. It makes two members of M-G-M's famous Lardy family who are not American citizens. Pay Holden, the mother in the series, is English.

Add to dramatic moments on Hollywood's night club row . . . when Ann Sheridan and Don Barry came into La Conga the other night and found Edward Norris (Ann's ex) sitting at another table with Vivia Bran.

Brings back a lot of memories for some of us to see Fred Astaire driving a red 1914 Stutz for a scene in "The Castles."

The car once belonged to the late Fatty Arbuckle and was a familiar sight along the boulevards. It's now the property of a man who rents unusual cars to the movies.

The all-English cast of "Wuthering Heights" are certainly getting a baptism of fire . . . Doing scenes over and over again for William ("10 take") Wyler and, on top of this, driving 50 miles to location every morning. It means getting up at 4 a. m. The Goldwyn company hires messengers to stick around and see that they get up. A taxicab arrives to take each sleepy actor to the studio from where the real drive begins.

Eddie Collins, whom Walt Disney took out of a Main street burlesque house to act as a model for Dopey in "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," now can tell the girl shows goodby forever. Zanuck has given him a straight year's contract after seeing his work in "Charlie Chan in Honolulu."

It took 14 women to supply the hair for Bette Davis' jet-black wig in "Juarez." Months were spent assembling and matching the hair. Studio figures the wig cost $2,500, which makes it one of the most expensive ever worn by a Hollywood star.

Robert Donat will age 60 years in "Goodbye Mr. Chips." From a young man of 24 to an ancient of 84. . . . Jane Wyman is helping to console Bob Herndon for Dixie Dunbar's departure. They were at the Tropics together. Shirley Temple will be the first child to serve as grand marshal of a Pasadena Tournament of Roses parade. . . . The Zanuck preview of Kentucky will be one of Hollywood's swankiest. They are bringing Gov. A. B. Chandler and 35 other people out in a special car . . . Vivian

Jane Wyman

Leight came to Hollywood using the name of Vivian Holman. . . . She's been visiting Laurence Oliver on the "Wuthering Heights" set. . . . Edgar Kennedy's 12-year-old daughter, Colleen, just made her acting debut in a Beverly Hills children's theater. . . . And most popular girl of the week was Whitney Bourne, who appeared at the Roller Derby with three escorts: Burgess Meredith, Carson

EXHIBIT BIBLES; DATE BACK TO THE YEAR 1832

Fifty Shown at Service in Morrisville Presbyterian Church

IN MANY LANGUAGES

MORRISVILLE, Dec. 16—When an exhibition of Bibles took place, here, this week, in First Presbyterian Church, 50 were on display. They dated back to the years 1832 and 1846. The display was in connection with Universal Bible Sunday.

There were shown likewise two other books, one on the interpretation of the Bible and the other the Book of Common Worship, which dated back to 1875 and 1794.

There were Bibles printed in English, Chinese, Japanese, Hebrew, Greek, French, German, Welsh and Spanish. About half of the books were printed between 1850 and 1900.

One of the Bibles exhibited was used during the Civil War and another New Testament was carried all through the World War by one of the members of First Church.

UNUSUAL HOBBY

FAIRHAVEN, Mass. — (INS)—Continuing a hobby she started when she was four years old, Mrs. William A. Coe now has more than 400 pitchers of various types and sizes. While most have only a sentimental value to the owner, many of the pitchers have a high intrinsic value.

NEW FACES IN POLITICS

JOHN A. DANAHER
Senator-Elect of Connecticut

HARTFORD, Conn., Dec. 16—(INS)—At 23 an assistant district attorney for the United States District Court of Connecticut; at 33 Secretary of State; and at 39 John A. Danaher, Republican Senator-elect, becomes the youngest man ever sent by the voters of Connecticut to the "most exclusive club in the country."

Son of an attorney famed for his eloquence and court battles in the cause of labor, the youthful Danaher comes from a legal and political family. His three brothers are lawyers. One of them is Mayor of Meriden, the home town of the Danahers. The Senator, however, lives in Hartford with his family.

The first Republican Connecticut Senator since Frederic C. Walcott went out in 1932, red-haired John Danaher is no newcomer to politics. He has been in public life since 1922 when he graduated from Yale Law School.

"So you can see that I'm not so youthful as people will have you believe," he asserts smilingly when one mentions the fact that only Senators Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr. (Mass. R.), and Rush D. Holt (W. Va. D.), are closest to him in age in the senate.

In demand as a speaker during campaigns, banquets and other affairs, he was considered "political timber" which needed only a little "hewing."

The hewing process showed results in 1932. When the Republican convention drafted former Governor John H. Trumbull to come out of retirement and try to defeat Democratic Governor Wilbur L. Cross, young Danaher was elected Secretary of State. He received the second highest number of votes among the Republican candidates while Trumbull went down in defeat.

Following in the legal footsteps of his father, Cornelius J. Danaher, attorney for the Connecticut Federation of Labor for 35 years, Danaher has done his share in fighting labor's many causes. And labor remembered—remembered well enough to hand together and help elect him over Senator Augustine Lonergan, Democratic incumbent.

Less than a year ago, and at a time when he was eyed as "good ticket material," Danaher led the defense counsel battery in the cases of 15 men facing conspiracy charges, aftermath of a State-wide truck drivers' strike.

"All he received was expense money—and very little of that," said one attorney. "But that's Danaher for you. He'll fight for anything he believes in right."

Well-versed in labor problems, Danaher is expected to be one of the Republican leaders if any contemplated revision is made of the Wagner Labor Relations Act in the next Congress.

Although he did not serve overseas, Danaher holds the rank of second lieutenant of field artillery. A student at Yale when war came, he became a member of the field artillery officers' training unit at the university. He was ordered to Camp Jackson, Columbia, S. C., for duty in 1918 and received his commission.

He married Dorothy E. King of Meriden in 1921 and they have three children, two boys and a girl.

G. O. P. leaders, including some of the "Old Guard," nod their collective heads in agreement when Danaher says:

"What has been gained by the people through any administration and found good by test, must be kept. Fallacies, wherever found, must be righted. It is not enough to bring people back to the Republican party; we must also make absolutely certain that we bring the Republican party back to the people."

MANHATTAN SIDE-STREETS

By Walter Klerman
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

They came singly, in couples and in groups into the arid, sandwichless press room, and were solemnly introduced by Mr. Ward into the floor lamp standard. They told their names, their address and how much they loved Mr. Dewey while reporters took notes with broken pencils and photographers aimed unloaded cameras.

Everybody was quite happy about the whole thing. Our side was happiest because we had about stopped loving Mr. Dewey and his supporters. We found them too rough.

If you can stop crying long enough to read Wilfred J. Funk's "When The Merry Go Round Broke Down" (Funk & Wagnalls), you will stop fretting about the country coming apart at the seams. Editors and people who write letters to editors have been worrying about it since away back, it appears, and Mr. Funk has rounded up their dire predictions of dictatorship, bankruptcy and other forms of disaster and printed them just as they appeared in the nation's newspapers in other depression days. You will get a chuckle and also an education.

If you know as little about where your dollars go as we do, you will appreciate Ruth MacKay's "Money Without Men" (Farrar & Rinehart) which is intended as a guide to feminine finance. Miss MacKay explains everything from the proper way to draw a check to how to get the best value for your money. You see men as well as you see women will learn something from this little volume which is as entertaining as fiction and as educational as a course in economics.

Phyllis Bottomo in "The Mortal Storm" (Little, Brown & Co.), gives you all the political philosophies of Germany as expressed through the characters who move through her story of a Christian-Jewish family divided against itself in Naziland. Communism, national socialism and nazism clash in this one bewildered family. "The Mortal Storm" is heavy reading but you will read it to the end even if you do skip whole pages and paragraphs.

$1,000 LOSS CAUSED BY FIRE AT YARDLEY FARM

Loss at Slater Place Includes
Two Poultry Houses,
500 Chickens

PREVENT FIRE SPREAD

YARDLEY, Dec. 16—In an early morning blaze, Thursday, 500 chickens were burned at the Slater farm, near here.

The loss was at the poultry farm of James Slater, Sr., on the Washington Crossing Road, Mr. Slater being awakened by smoke from a brooder.

Yardley firemen responded to the call in record time, and trained streams of water on two chicken houses.

The firemen were unable to save any of the chickens in the two 12 feet by 12 feet houses. They prevented spread of the flames to another chicken house and to the Slater home. The chickens destroyed were Barred Rocks, two months old. Slater estimated the loss at $1,000.

TO PLAY FINAL SOCCER TOURNAMENT TILT HERE TODAY

In two fast and hard fought battles waged on the local high school soccer field yesterday afternoon the 10A class and the 11A section emerged the victors in the semi-finals of the intramural tournament and thereby earned the right to meet in the finals for the school championship for 1939.

This tilt will be played this afternoon at 3.45.

The 10A section advanced to the finals by whipping the 9-6 aggregation on Monday afternoon, and after holding the 10G's to a 0-0 draw on Wednesday, they were awarded the contest via a forfeit when the 10G's failed to put a team on the field yesterday afternoon for the playoff of the tie. Then the 10A's went on to whip the 9-5 section in the semi-finals to gain the final round of play. However, they were forced to the limit to nose out the scrappy Freshmen eleven, who held the tenth graders scoreless. But, in such event, the team having the most corner-kicks is awarded the victory. And, in this department, the Sophs out-classed the opposition and thereby scored a triumph to put them in the finals.

A violent dispute featured the furious struggle between the Juniors and Seniors which the Juniors finally won, 1-0. The argument arose out of a disputed goal kick in the second half after referee, Tomlinson, reversed his original decision.

At the time, neither team had scored and neither team had a corner kick as yet. A long kick from mid-field rolled through the 11th grade defense and out past the goal. As the ball rolled through the Junior defense, it appeared as though the ball had struck the foot of Danny DiMidio and referee Tomlinson called a corner kick against the Juniors, whereupon the 11th graders swarmed around the official protesting the ruling. Upon questioning players from both squads and the sideline official, it was apparent that the referee had made a wrong decision on a judgment play and thereby reversed his original decision. This action brought immediate protest from the Seniors.

However, play was shortly resumed and in rapid succession, the 11th graders rolled up three corner kicks then on the third one, they booted a goal when Len Fell shot the ball into the goal from the left side to give the Juniors undisputed victory. They later chalked up another corner kick, but this was superfluous.

The Juniors were paced by Bill Gallagher on the forward wall with their defense men playing an exceptionally good game, not allowing the opposition many scoring opportunities. Joe Ciaella sparked the Seniors offensive cause. Wilbur Van Lenten missed an opportunity to score in the closing minutes of the game when he missed a penalty shot.

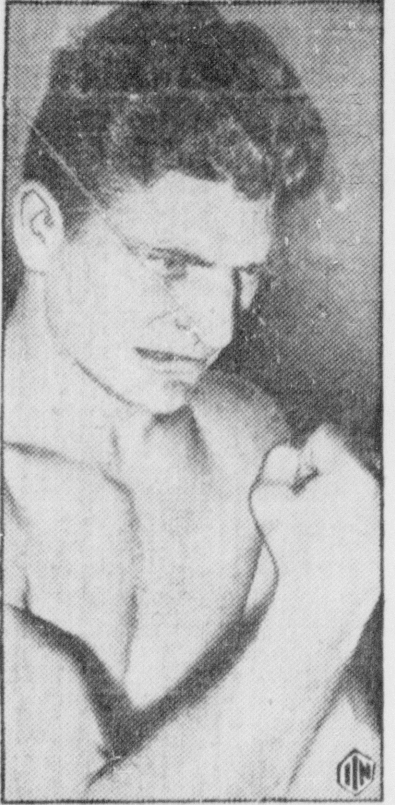

Captain Chart Tomlinson's Junior eleven gained the finals by whipping the 10C-2 class on Tuesday easily, 4-0, in the most one-sided tilt of the tournament. They then beat their fellow-classmen, the Junior commercial section yesterday, 1-0. The Senior C section which won the championship last year as Juniors went into the tournament a heavy favorite to repeat that triumph. But they were eliminated early in the quarter-finals by the 12A class Wednesday, 2-0.

Scores of yesterday's semi-final games:

9-5 0-0-0
Referee: Dougherty. 10A won on corner kicks, 1-0.
12A 0-0-0

Referee: Tomlinson. 11th grade also had four corner kicks to none for the Seniors.

GRUNDY FIVE LOSES TO FALLS ALUMNI, 45 TO 27

A game little Grundy's five gave the Falls Township Alumni team quite a bit of trouble in the second half but passed too inaccurately to accomplish much and so fell on the short end of a 45-27 score.

The woolen workers could not get started and allowed the Farmers to pile up an immense lead in the first quarter and this was gradually increased in the second period.

In the third the Grundymen went to work. Delia and Kervick found the range of the basket and with long shots began to cut into the Falls' lead but then, failing to enjoy success, the Grundytes began to do some wild tossing with the result that the Falls team received the ball on most occasions and had little trouble in scoring.

Leaders in the victory were Freddie Briegle and Duerr. Briegle had fourteen points and Duerr, eleven. Briegle made good in four out of five fouls while Duerr sunk in three out of four. Monday night, the battle for the first half lead will take place with the Hibernians meeting Rohm and Haas and Goodwill clashing with the Falls Alumni five.

ST. ANN'S ELIMINATES ROHM & HAAS TEAM

St. Ann's A. A. looked like a championship outfit last night on the Italian Mutual Aid floor as it eliminated the Rohm and Haas team from the first race of the Bristol Basketball League, downing the chemical workers, 41-30, in a fast tilt.

The Saints with the addition of Herbie Lawrence to its ranks and the return of Johnny Slaven was too much for the Maple Beach team. Slaven and Lawrence were really the cogs that helped send the Rohm and Haas aggregation to defeat.

Slaven and Lawrence did excellent work but the playing of the St. Ann's pivot man, Harry Berry, must not be overlooked. Berry guarded Ralph Cahall for almost the entire game and at the same time was under the St. Ann's basket to receive the passes from Lawrence and Slaven.

Cahall was held down to five points for the entire evening, a fine job for any player but while he was holding down Cahall, Berry was doing some scoring of his own and finished the tilt with five double-deckers and a foul for eleven points.

Slaven had 13 points. Lawrence and Dorsey did most of the passing with these players also getting the ball on the rebounds off the backboard. For the losers the outstanding players were Johnny Dougherty and Ed Slaughter. Dougherty scored ten points and was the leader of the last period drive which shaved ten points off the St. Ann's lead. Slaughter, besides his guarding, scored on three long shots.

HUNTING FROM THE AIR

VICTORIA FALLS, S. Rhodesia—(INS)—A successful lion hunt from the air has been carried out near here by a well-known Rhodesian pilot, Edward Spencer, of Victoria Falls. Spencer set out with the intention of bagging a lion and purposely flew over lion country, looking for the animals. He saw three of them enjoying a kill and was fortunate in being able to land nearby. He shot one of the lions, put the beast in his machine and flew home.
